DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 6-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Frederics (1,940,451).

Frederics discloses a hair roller 19 having notches 39' and 22' on each end, and a base implement having a cradle with cut-out shoulders 26, 20 at each end of a support rod 11 (see Fig. 1). The support rod is connected to the ends in a middle portion of the ends. The support rod includes a support arm 27. Fredericks also discloses using the device for a permanent waving operation with heat (see page 1, lines 83-93).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-5 and 9-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Frederics (1,940,451) in view of Miller et al. (3,065,758).

Frederics discloses the claimed invention except for the compressible roller body. Miller et al. disclose a similar device having a compressible body component 35 made of flannel, to act as a shock absorber and properly distribute stresses through the user's hair and reduce damage to hair (see Fig. 1 and col. 3, lines 13-16). It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide the hair roller and base implement of Frederics with a compressible roller body, in view of Miller et al., in order for the roller body to act as a shock absorber and to properly distribute stresses through the user's hair and reduce damage to hair. With regard to claims 9-11, it is noted that the steps of wrapping hair around the body, resting the base implement against the user's scalp, engaging the hair roller in the base and performing a permanent operation, including heat, to the hair, are disclosed by Frederics (see Frederics, page 1, lines 83-93). It is further noted that it is old and well-known for permanents to include steps of applying solutions and rinsing the solutions out. With regard to claim 12, coil supports and rod supports are functionally equivalent hair roller structures known in the art. Therefore, it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art to substitute a coil support for a rod support, since doing so would have merely been the substitution of functionally equivalent hair roller structures, known in the art.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
